“ Henry was a great man to work with. Great work ethics. Consistent in his beliefs. Always offering advice. Old school man reminded me of my Dad. Loved Henry.

“ As a son-in-law to Rev. Harry Vickery, I had known him since the mid 70's. A grand fellow with a tremendous work ethic. Enjoyed meeting him on occasion when passing through from England. I think he always ordered a blueberry muffin and was always conscious to keep his weight down with great success. Brilliant smile.

“ What a wonderful man. He helped me with my insurance needs for over 50 years. He became a mentor to me when I needed financial advice 35 years ago. I had very little but Henry convinced me, as only he could do, that I needed to invest money in order to help secure my future. He called me yearly and again convinces me that I needed to put more into my account. Now that I am retired I am reaping the benefits of his wisdom. I will never forget him. Rest In Peace Henry.
