“ I've known your mom since I was eleven. I was SCARED of her back then. I always felt like she was the drill sergeant of all the kids that hung out at the house. But then I realized how sweet and thoughtful your mom was.

She was more open minded than the three of you ever realized. I had many conversations - serious conversations - with your mom over the last forty years. She was a wonderful lady. I was glad to help in any way I could - I wish it could have been more. Just know that your mother was loved and respected by me.
