“ Mr. Bolt was my friend, cheerleader and trusted business associate. He filled a void created by the absence of my own father (who died when I was a teen) and recently celebrated my graduation from Columbia with me and my family. "Young lady," he said, "you must get that doctorate. It is very important for our people." And, so I did. I have no idea why the Lord chose to take him at this moment, but I know that God crossed our paths for a very special reason. We fought often (he loved to challenge me, question me and generally drive me crazy) but we laughed a whole lot more. He was straightforward and direct, but at his core he was a kind and sensitive man with strong morals and values who loved his wife and children more than anything else. Whether it was marriage, parenting, politics, race or culture, he had an opinion he didn't mind sharing. Last Wednesday, after an extended lunchtime pow-wow, he turned to me and said, "Young lady, you will never forget BB." He was right, again.... May God keep you and sustain you during this period of grief. I am grateful to his family for sharing him with the rest of us. I learned so much over the last four years. His dream for me was that someday I'd be ready for "Prime Time". I hope I can live up to it.##imported-begin##Danielle Moss Lee##imported-end##

“ Dear Bolt Family, I wish to express my deepest sympathy for the sudden loss of your husband and father, Mr. Bolt. I have many pleasant memories of Mr. Bolt through my interactions with him at HEAF. He was a kind and thoughtful man. I always appreciated his special brand of humor and got a kick out of the way he delivered a particular funny insight with a straight face in his regular tone of voice. I think I learned the most about him through Danielle's many stories of how he mentored her and guided her over these last years with a fatherly hand and always with that sense of humor. We will all miss him! My prayer is that God comforts and sustains your family and all who loved Mr. Bolt during this difficult time. With Love,
Lisa Long###imported-begin###Dr. Lisa L. Long###imported-end###
