Flora L. Howell was born March 12, 1935, on a farm in Palmer Springs, VA to the late Cornelia and Charlie Hunt Sr. She grew up with 12 siblings: 7 brothers (Charlie, Americus, Nathaniel, Talmidge, Plumer, Johnny, Armstead), and 5 sisters (Selude, Bessie, Carrie, Ruth, and Pauline).

Her schooling started with Cotton Creek Elementary and ended with East End High School where she graduated in 1956. Flora married her high school sweetheart, William L. Howell, in December 1956. She stayed home while her husband went to New York to find a job and housing for his family. In 1957 he came back for her and their daughter, the late Sylvia T. Howell. They all returned to the city where they lived for several years.

After her marriage ended, Flora and her daughter moved to Hackensack, NJ before finally settling in Teaneck, NJ. She then took several computer courses to aid in her job at an engineering firm where she worked for about 8 years. From there she went to GlaxoSmithKline where she worked for 19+ years until her retirement when her health deteriorated.
