“ My daddy,
How do I go on without you? You've always been my rock and my anchor. Now, there's no one else that will ever be able to give me what you gave to me...your honesty, trust, advice and so much more. With mom gone and the loss of my husband and brother, I just don't know what to do. You always said you loved me and that I was a good girl. I always said that I'm my father's daughter. I'll try to live up to that, but it won't be easy. Now that you're in heaven and are with God and our family and friends, when the time comes that I must leave this earth, I hope you're there to welcome me with open arms. I will try my hardest to try to move on and be the strong daughter that you raised. I am so blessed to have known you and that I had you in my life for 60 years because when I was born, you were not expected to live. We were both in the hospital at the same time. They said when I was a month old and they finally were able to put me in your arms, that that's when you started coming around. I only wish it could be that way now. Please say hi to Mom, Bill, Darryl, the rest of my family and my friends. May you be at peace now with your two boys and your brother. Please watch over me since I'm the last one left. You know what I mean. I will never forget you and the love we shared. May you now rest in peace and enjoy eternal life. This will be the last time I write the following to you.

Love always,
your loving daughter, Joanne
