“ My dearest son it's been 1 week since you passed so suddenly, and since then I can't imagine you not being here for the rest of my life. Not being able to call or see you is hard for me to come to terms with. To not hear your voice or see you anymore is ripping my heart out and i don't know how I'm going to move forward without you. I miss our conversation as dynamic as they were. We talked about putting music to some of your poems, and I will try to do just that. I only hope I make you proud of them.
Until we meet again son, Rest In Peace.
Love you, Dad

“ My dearest boy....you left me so suddenly. My heart is broken. You are my first, my son, my friend, my pal. The sweetest soul to all that knew you. Your fingers flowed up and down the guitar fret board...so much talent. I will miss you every moment of every day for the rest of my life. A huge piece of me passed along with you. My beautiful boy may you Rest In Peace and find the serenity you always seeked. I love you so much words just can't express. I will struggle to live without you but take comfort knowing we will see each other again and I will hold and kiss your beautiful face once again. Mama loves you sweetheart....I miss you so much❤️Love always Mom

“ Liam from the earliest age you were kind and gentle. You were a go-with-the-flow kind of kid. You always kept the peace and worried about other people. Some of my happiest days were spent at your house in Connecticut, You and Lenny would spend hours playing legos, superheroes, or guys while your mom and I hung out. Those were carefree precious days. I hope you are carefree and laughing once again.

With all my love, Jenn

“ My heaviest condolences go out to Liam’s friends and family. Liam was about 4 years older than me and every day after school my brother and I would go to his house, do our homework, then just get to be kids. Whether we were playing video games, guitar, tag or just about anything you would expect kids to do to keep busy, he was always kind, respectful and an overall good friend even though most 12 year olds wouldn’t be half as caring and patient as he was to an 8 year old. He was always the cool kid in my young eyes and along with my older brother, I looked up to him more than anybody else. In my elementary school years I was lucky enough to be able to look forward to hanging out with Liam and Shannon every day when school got out. It’s these kind of moments and friendships that make us who we are and I know without a doubt he’s had a positive impact on my life and the lives of the people around him. Rest easy, Liam ❤️

“*Liam,
I will miss playing guitar together at guitar center and trying the various acoustics in the sound proof room. I loved to watch you play, your hand seemed to float up and down the guitar neck so gracefully. I remember when you first started playing and you wanted to give up, but you didn't. You hung in there kept practicing and things got easier. I remember when you told us you signed yourself up for the middle school talent show. I was so surprised as you normally didn't like the focus. When I dropped you at school you were excited and nervous at the same time. You walked on to the stage, plugged in your guitar and started to play, however no sound came out as the faculty had not powered on your amp. You waited patiently till they fixed the issue and played to a standing ovation. I don't know how you were able to compose yourself and continue you to play. I was so proud of you and have never stop being proud of you.*

Love you and will miss you all days of my life.
