“ *I still can't believe that my dear friend Mario left us. For years Mario and I talked to each other practically every two months to see how our familys were doing. Rest in peace my dear friend. My family will never be able to thank you for your dedication to my father and my family. Our deepest feelings for the family and certainly their presence will be eternal in our mind and heart. “ Heaven gained another angel. My Great Uncle, Wewe's brother, and frankly the closest thing I ever had to a dad, passed away last week. Manqui was the coolest uncle. He loved electronics and gadgets - had a Betamax / VCR when they first came out. First one I knew that had HBO. I remember going over to his house to watch the Donny and Marie movie, Going Coconuts, when it premiered on HBO! I loved his hand me downs. He gave me his commodore 64 when he upgraded and that damned thing got me through college! He also passed down more than one stereo receiver so I could blast my music a little louder! Spent 2 college spring breaks visiting him and Adriana (but basically spending my days at Clearwater beach because he was only 30 minutes away). He made me want to move to Florida. I was going to move to Tampa right after college. Well, things changed but I still loved visiting him there! He even walked me down the isle. And at 95, he had just joined Facebook! Rest in peace Manqui, thank you for being you, and say hi to Wewe for me! You will be missed!

“ My father was a wonderful man who lived a long and full life. I was so fortunate that he lived with me this past year. It was an opportunity to know and appreciate him all over again.

He had an unexpected and incredible sense of humor and a strong desire and ability to help me and all those he loved in anyway he could. If there was a dilemma-give him less than a day to come up with an ingenious solution.

His love of technology, reading, organization, and food was apparent every day. He showed me that while you are living, you keep moving. He was always looking for ways to help, finding projects around the house to work on, or taking a daily walk on the treadmill.

I am so grateful for our wonderful relationship of love, appreciation and mutual respect. I am missing you Papy and loving you with all my heart.

“ My papy, the BEST papy in the world. A very kind and smart man. He could fix pretty much anything and if he couldn't he'd read and learn how. He loved to read, his electronics and most of all his family. A loving father and grandfather. I'm so proud to say I'm your daughter. I will Miss you everyday.

I Love you with all my heart. Lisa

“ I had the good fortune of meeting Mario -or Neighbor as Adriana and I used to call him- a little over a decade ago. From the very beginning, he made me feel as part of the family. He was smart, generous and straight forward, and I will never forget our conversations about technology, cars and food some of his favorite subjects. He was an optimist until the end. Neighbor, you will be missed by many. As I told you a few years back: “I didn’t have the opportunity to meet my father. But if I had, I wish he had been just like you.”

“ Mario was a wonderful person. He was kind, funny and caring. He was a good friend to my parents, an amazing dad to my best friend Laura ("Laurita" as he lovingly called her), and a great employer to me when i was in college and needed a part time job. A beautiful example of a life well lived. I was blessed in my life to know him. Godspeed on your new journey Mario. I know you were greeted with love and applause by my parents and others there to welcome you home. <3 Love, Linda Torres (Thielmann)

“ Although I only met Mario a handful of times I will always remember his gentleness, his intelligence, his kindness and his smile. He was both a role model and a blessing to all who knew him. My thoughts are with him today and with all of his family who adored him so much. Rest In Peace Mario.

“ Mario was a wonderful and loving husband to Gloria and after her passing, to Adriana. He especially loved his children, grandchildren, and me, his son-in-law. In fact, I consider him to be a true father figure for me. He taught me how to love and to be generous of spirit. He was intelligent, and funny. He knew his way around current events as well as the world of electronics. There were many times when he came to my rescue when it came a failing computer problem. We were lucky to have him live with us for around a year. We grew closer and closer every day. I know that I will miss him terribly while always feeling the warmth of his love.

“ Where to begin? Mario Arrue was an incredibly special man for so many reasons. I have so many fond memories with he and Adriana growing up. As I've gotten older, I've learned to cherish each moment with him and was so amazed by his stories and grateful for his sharp mind capable of remembering even the smallest details from decades ago. I've always admired his attention to detail and thoroughness. I always have and always will strive to be like Mario Arrue. Thank you for everything, Grandpa. Rest In Peace.
