“ I knew MaryAnn from the gym. No matter how sick Morten was MaryAnn was always upbeat and hoping for the best. I had lived in Oradell and we shared neighborhood stories. I began missing her visits to the gym. At first I assumed she was tending to a sick husband. I never knew her last name. I tried to find someone in the gym who knew her but had no luck. We talked about the book Pat was writing. I'm the one who suggested Mao's Last Dancer about what life was like under Mao. I know she discussed it with Pat but the book was not available in UK. Good luck with your book. I did enjoy exercising while we chatted because she was always easy to talk with. I'm so sorry I was out of town over the weekend and could not express my symphies in person. I will miss her friendship.

Sincerly,

Melanie Harwood
