Mrs. Barone started as my mentor teacher, later becoming a great, dear friend. Mrs. Barone was set to retire when I walked in as a green teacher's assistant. I was assigned to her and we hit it off immediately. The chemistry in our classroom was evident in the successes of our students. Mrs. Barone believed so much in me, she waited a whole year on her retirement so that I would take over her third grade classroom. I saw the beautiful love and some of the fun times she and Mr. Barone shared, I saw how much she loved and how devoted she was to her two children. Our friendship evolved and we recognized one another as cross generational kindred spirits. She was a special soul. I love her very much and I've missed her so much. I hope to meet you in heaven, Mrs. Barone. Until then, Shaki (Shakira Syed-Talbott)

“ Nancy was as sweet as they come!
Soft spoken, kind-hearted & just a truly nice person.
She had "3" loves of her life, her husband Tony, her son Anthony & her daughter Karinne! And also a "nice addition" her daughter-in-law Jen!
May she rest happily in heaven with all those she loved that went before her!
Our love,

During our life journey we shared many good times and unfortunately, bad times. Christmas trees and Chanukah lights will always be in our hearts. Nancy and Tony were kind, caring and lovely people. We are so blessed to have had them in our lives.

Dear Karinn, Anthony and Jennifer,

Your Mom was a lovely and loving person as you know. She was thoughtful and intelligent, easy to know, quick sense of humor and a woman of faith. I feel blessed to have been in her company.

Sending condolences and love to your family at this sad time. I met your mom when you, Anthony, started nursery school at Church of the Savior- it was my first year teaching and I remember enjoying getting to know her and your dad during your first year of school! We reconnected when I saw her at Church of the Presentation in recent years, and remember enjoying you, Korrin, and your mom in the choir. I was blessed to have known her- always a calm spirit and a lovely smile and loving way. I am so very sorry for your loss. Nancy Maguire
