“ Stanley & his mother befriended me and my family when we moved to New Jersey in 1980. We knew no one and his Stop & Cop Chicken Shop was around the corner from our home. My husband and I would run into him from time to time in Harlem but our funniest encounter was when we took our daughter to college in Phila. and we ran into Stanley driving a limo dropping off a young lady to the same college. It seems her father hired him to do this but the young lady made the mistake of sending her girlfriend downstairs to tell Stanley to bring up her belongings. I don't have to tell you what his reply was -- the young lady & her friend carried the stuff upstairs to her room. Stanley, you will be missed. “ My sincere sympathy to the family of Stanley. I met Stanley in 1980. He was a messenger for Midlantic Citizens Bank delivering from Englewood to Rivervale New Jersey and all the ladies at the bank were crazy about Stanley. I ran into him many years later at Silkys in Hackensack. He was the same little bubbly Stanley. I left with some ribs and wished him well in his new business.##imported-begin##dorothy moore##imported-end##
